

Jonathan Daniel Brown: Popular director and actor

Jonathan is a popular American writer and actor. He had acted in movies like '21 Jump Street' and 'Project X'. He was born in Los Angeles in 1989 and active since 2009. He starred in web series, TV shows and films. He has also given voice in video games. He launched his career acting in small roles in movies like '21 Jump Street' and 'Adventureland'. It was in 'Project X', a movie released in 2012 that he gained recognition. Later, he appeared in other movies like 'The DUFF', 'Neighbors', 'The Bling Ring', and 'Bad Teacher'. 'Assassination Nation', the 2018 thriller is his recent movie.

Web Series and TV shows

He also acted in numerous web series and TV shows. It includes 'The Kicks' and Comedy 'Bang! Bang!'. He gave voice to video games like 'Call of Duty - Black Ops 3' and 'Halo 4'.

Net worth

His estimated net worth as of 2021 is approximately $1.7 million. Acting is his primary income source. He also earned good amounts from writing and voice work. He resides currently in Los Angeles.

A popular star

He took time to earn recognition in the industry. When compared to other stars, his popularity came a little late. He is among the most searched celebrity on the web. He also starred in 'Kid Cannabis'.

His personal life

Unfortunately, he hasn't revealed much about his early life, siblings or family members. Also not much is known about his education. But he is anticipated to have completed his university graduation in a subject he has keen interest in.

Professional life and Career

His acting career started with the movie 'Project X' where he got a small role to play. He acted along with other two untold actors namely, Oliver Cooper and Thomas Mann.

In the 201r movie, 'Kid Cannabis', he got the lead role. It was with 'Horseshoe Theory' that he debuted as a director. Slamdance Film Festival saw this movie receive the 'Jury Prize Award'. He was a member of 'Struggle Session', a leftist pop-culture podcast. Brown left the show on 19th February, 2019.

His passion

He shares a strong passion for video games and has strong opinions about 'Game Gate' campaign. He had initially opposed it and later changed his stance to support it. He cited reasons for his changing views was due to changes in environment. Through his three movies and short work, he believes to help people remain aloof from their regular problems, at least for a short time. This is what he chooses to accomplish from his work. For more details visit: <https://biographyresearch.org/what-is-jonathan-daniel-brown-doing-now-height-net-worth-bio/>